Burleson Mayor Ken Shetter proclaimed the month of September as Youth Soccer Month in Burleson. The proclamation was presented Aug. 28 at the Burleson City Council meeting. Accepting the proclamation were members of the Burleson Independent Soccer Association.

According to the proclamation, interest and participation in soccer is at its highest point ever among the nation's youth. Soccer provides a foundation and offers skills for a lifetime. Youth Soccer Month is celebrated to help bring attention to the sport of soccer and to encourage and promote physical fitness, physical activity and exercise as the link to good health.

Burleson has more than 800 children participating in BISA programs at the recreational and competitive level. The BISA is one of the largest youth sports in the city.
