How do you interact with the City of Burleson online?

CivicPlus, the company that redesigned the City's website in September 2010, has asked Burleson to participate in a national research survey to determine how citizens use the government website. The Citizen Usage of Government Websites Survey is short and can be accessed on the City website at www.burlesontx.com/surveys. Two other surveys, one for the City's code compliance division and one for communications, are also on this page.

The survey will remain online through Aug. 24. The results will be provided to the City of Burleson to help in providing better online services through the website, www.burlesontx.com.
