Burleson voters will have their choice of six candidates in four races this spring as a mix of political veterans and newcomers face off in the May 2 local election. All Burleson City Council seats are elected at-large for three-year terms.

For the mayor's seat, voters will have two options to choose from (in alphabetical order): Chris Fletcher and Ken Shetter. Fletcher is a former local business owner. Incumbent Ken Shetter was elected mayor in June of 2004, during his second term on Burleson's City Council.

In Place 2, incumbent Rick Green is running unopposed. Green is serving his fifth term as a member of the council.

In Place 4, incumbent Todd Hulsey (elected in 2016) is being challenged by Tamara Payne, a 24 year resident of Burleson, entrepreneur and small business owner. Hulsey served on the Zoning Board of Adjustment before he won his council seat.

In Place 6, incumbent Ronnie Johnson is running unopposed. Johnson has served on the council since his election in 2012.
